Kentucky Dairy Group Appoints Robert Wilson Secretary-Manager

Dairy farmers in Kentucky for the first time have a full time secretary-manager of the American Dairy Association of Kentucky. He is Robert J. Wilson, who was appointed by the board of directors from Green Bay, Wis., and will take over his duties immediately. This was announced by A. A. Moser, Worthington, president of the American Dairy Association of Kentucky.

The new manager has had 10 years experience in sales, promotion and merchandising dairy products, and for the past four years was employed as field representative for the Wisconsin A.D.A.

He is 35, married and has four children and is temporarily living with his brother at St. Matthews. Moser also announced that the town offices of the American Dairy Association will be at the Kentucky Artificial Breeding Association Building, 640 Herz Lane, Louisville, between U. S. Highways 42 and 60.

Simultaneous sessions are to be held for four classes. Teachers will be the Rev. W. L. Aspy, pastor of Poplar Level Baptist Church, adult class; the Rev. Clinton Powell, pastor of Plum Creek Baptist Church, young people; the Rev. C. E. Price, pastor of Hopewell Baptist Church, intermediates; and the Rev. Chester C. Irvin, pastor of the Jefferson-town Church, juniors.

Other local churches have been invited to participate in the courses.

Further plans for continuation of the civil defense program in Jefferson County outside Louisville were discussed at a meeting Wednesday night at Bowman Field.

County Workers Needed In Civil Defense Jobs

The interested group, including auxiliaries of the 19 volunteer fire departments, are working in conjunction with the fire fighters.

Mr. Roy Ruckledge, Jefferson-town, a member of the city's auxiliary, said many types of workers are needed. They include first aid men, fire guards, electricians, water haulers, radio operators, etc. Persons seeking further information may call Mr. Ruckledge at Jefferson-town 5-2288.

Another alert is planned in the county the second week of February, she said, although plans have not been completed.

SCOUTS TO ORGANIZE

A meeting of parents and boys of Cub Scout age - 8 to 10 - has been arranged for 7:30 p.m. this Friday in the Jefferson-town Presbyterian Church to organize a pack to replace Cub Pack 76, formerly sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association. Howard Braach and Guy Heckler, representatives of the Cherokee District, are in charge of arrangements. Boys in the age group are invited to attend the meeting provided by at least one of their parents.

Southern Railway Seeks To End Passenger Service Through J'town

Residents of Jefferson-town, Buechel, Fishersville and way points will witness or hear a passenger train traveling through their communities for the last time in the near future - if the Southern Railway has its way.

The company filed an application with the State Railroad Commission Monday seeking permission to discontinue Train No. 23 and to discontinue Louisville and Danville, and of Southern passenger trains in the area. It is the only railroad serving the three points. Passengers on these trains are "as secure as hen's teeth" and their continued operation is not in the public interest, John P. Mumford, superintendent of the railway at Louisville, said. U.S. rail is not carried on either train.

"Nearly everyone has an automobile nowadays," Mumford said. "This fact, plus the abundance of highways, makes the

Loss Is $20,000 In Clark Station Road Barn Fire

A barn on the farm of F. W. Bryant, Clark Station Road, 10 miles east of Jefferson-town, lay in ruins Friday, the result of a $20,000 blaze Saturday afternoon.

The fire was discovered by an employee, Stanley Carpenter, who lives nearby, a few minutes after Bryant had left the building. The cause is undetermined.

Members of the Jefferson-town Volunteer Fire Department devoted their efforts to keep the flames from spreading.

The loss, Bryant said, included 11 cows, 17 tons of hay, a manure spreader, a disc harrow and a wheat drill. Because of a brick breeze, the flames were blown toward the silo with the result that the silo was damaged beyond repair.

Bryant said 38 milch cows were led to safety and that the loss is partially covered by insurance.

Of the animal loss, eight died in the flames. The other three were so severely injured that they were slaughtered for their salvage value.

Monday's afternoon wind fanned the smoldering hay at the site, necessitating a second call to the volunteer firemen. There was no further damage.

At the funeral home, the Rev. Mr. R. Costanzo, pastor of the Jefferson-town Presbyterian Church, announced the engagement of his daughter, Miss Doris Jane Strohmeier, to Army Lieut. Ashley F. Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Fenton Collins, Farmville, Va. Miss Strohmeier is a graduate of the University of Kentucky. The wedding will be held on the wedding.

Radar To Nab Speeders Will Be In Use Soon

Use of radar to trap speeders in the Jefferson County Police Department's campaign to increase highway safety is to be inaugurated soon - probably by this week-end.

County Judge Bertram Van Arsdale reported that permission has been granted by the Federal Communications Commission to place the county's two electronic devices in service.

Erection of reflective signs warning motorists of use of radar began Wednesday at county boundaries. These signs, 6 by 4 feet read "Speed Checked by Radar" and are to be placed on Highway 42, Old Bowman Field Road, Shelbyville Road, Bardonia Road, Bardonia Road, Preston Highway and Dixie Highway.

Smaller signs carrying the same warning will be placed every mile or so on county thoroughfares.

The use of radar in trapping speeders has been demonstrated in Louisville since the electronic device was recently placed in service. Hundreds of violators have been cited or arrested.

The judge's traffic advisory committee has recommended that maximum speeds be reduced on several connecting roads to 35 miles per hour. The maximum on the principal roads is 40 in daytime and 30 at night.

Purchase of three additional motorcycles to assist in the war against speeders has been authorized by Fiscal Court. This will bring the total to six.

Orville Miller, Jr., was elected secretary, replacing Josiah Hoskins.

County police formerly used more motorcycles, but abandoned them several years ago because automobiles were considered safer.

Residents of the Blankenbaker-Rehl Roads area have won their battle against establishment of a rock quarry in the section near Jefferson-town. Approximately 25 persons appeared at a meeting of the Jefferson County Planning and Zoning Commission last Thursday to protest.

Of the rock, the size of two double fists, alleged to have been thrown on property of Howard Blankenbaker, Rehl Road, by a blast at the proposed quarry site in a test explosion last July, clinched the case for the opponents, it is believed.

Chestnut, in placing the rock on the commission's table, said it weighed the porch of his home by 10 feet.

The quarry had been proposed in a 77-acre farm on the West side of Blankenbaker Road, just north of the Rehl Road and the Southern Railway tracks.

County Road Engineer W. Price Lane voted with the majority in the decision to deny application although he said the county is in need of new quarries.

The commission also approved a commercial zone for a 1,456-foot frontage on Dixie Highway at Old Road and an eight-acre tract at the northwest corner of Old Shepherdsville Road and Miles Lane. The latter formerly had been zoned for single family residences.

WORLD PROGRESS IN TWO DIRECTIONS

The closer the world comes to being destroyed, apparently, by its citizens making ruthless use of scientifically discovered forces, the greater the catastrophe promises to be should it come. Science has added much to the advantages for peace time living too, which means that the world has built up an elaborate social and economic step conducive to (with the possibilities at least) a happier and more prosperous existence.

We have heard it said time and again that when a man gets ready to live death overtakes him, or it frequently so happens. Is this to be true with the world as we have it today, or maybe tomorrow?

This reflection is inspired by the history-making incident which took place in the nation's capital last week when TV cameras put to visual record President Eisenhower's press conference for the first time. Subsequently during the same day the American public was virtually present to look and listen as the President talked to his press audience, whose members in turn gave it circulation via the printed page.

Answering one reporter's question as to the desirability of seeking a truce between the Chinese Reds and their civil war opponents through the good offices of the United Nations the Chief Executive appropriately, for the occasion, was in step with something of epochal importance.

Said the President, "I should like to see the United Nations exercise its good offices, I believe, because where there is any kind of fighting and open violence in the world, there is always a—it is always sort of a powder keg." Surmising he continued, "Whether the United Nations could do anything in this particular place, I don't know. Because each side would insist that it was an internal affair, although from our viewpoint that it might be a good thing to have them take a look at the problem."

This conjecturing attitude as displayed by the President makes us wonder if the administration's confidence in the UN's "good offices" is holding firm, or wavering a bit. For our part, we have been wondering ever since that celebrated "Police Action" in Korea and its disappointing conclusion, following that all but endless series of bargaining sessions around the propaganda table—wondering what the UN is contributing to a lasting peace in the world. Then that recent event when Secretary Dag Hammarskjöld went to China in the interest of freeing the Americans held there, gracefully and unlawfully in Red China has started the Red propaganda machine working again, as well as another bargaining season. America not only loses face, but often her shirt as well, when she trusts national interests to UN.

Yes, the world is making history; now it is strange to believe that Making History was ever Progress. Better living, or a bitter end? Just what it seems to be in the direction of both.

LOCAL SEWAGE DISPOSAL EMERGENCY

There is coming up for hearing before the City-County Planning and Zoning Commission, on February 3, a matter of serious concern to the residents of the Jeffersontown community. It has to do with the selection of a site for a sewage disposal plant which is fast becoming needed, urgently.

Following previous hearings, the planning body turned down the site selected for use and employed by the local Water and Sewerage Commission. The engineers claim, confidently and with evidence that the proposed site is a "natural."

The Planning Commission has asked for drawings of the selected site more in detail, indicating the points of advantage over other possible locations suggested by various interested parties. These are being prepared, together with a statement drawn up by the engineers.

Recently completed and proposed new developments in the area are making it imperative that the local sewage disposal facilities be expanded without delay. If a serious emergency is to be created. The County Health Department is pressing the local authorities for action to take care of the sanitary problem that is growing out of the steadily increasing need for extended and more adequate sewage disposal.

If a suitable site is not chosen for a plant that is adaptable to the local topography and that lends itself to natural drainage conditions the problem will soon be augmented, rather than overcome. Failure to locate the treatment plant at the proper elevation would result in serious handicaps in handling the disposal facilities in the future and furthermore would enhance the cost of construction and maintenance by many thousands of dollars.

Shall the community's growth be stopped by failure to meet the sanitary needs and to provide suitable facilities to handle, by practical methods, the steadily increasing volume of wastes?

President Eisenhower's lucid and convincing explanation of why he favors the Dixon-Yates power agreement satisfied everybody who wanted to hear it. The public power advocates could not accept any other than the throwing away of more millions on TVA. It is to be hoped as a result of the President's stand, there will be some changes in the Whitehouse advisory staff and a tightening up of the government's public relations system to the end that it will work for the President, rather than against him—Coatesville (Pa.) Record.

One of the prospective boons of 1955 will be the disappearance of overpowering heaps of "junk mail" from mail boxes, doorsteps and hallways. Responding to widespread protests from city patrons who were being flooded with unwanted advertising and "sucker" mail addressed merely to "householder," "occupant," or "patron," Postmaster General Summerfield has ordered delivery stopped, as of March 31, on this type of postal "service."—Columbus (Ohio) State Journal.

In his physical opinion in the crucifixion Jesus Christ cried out, "My God, My God, why hast thou forsaken me?"

answered a rough Roman soldier that a sponge, put on a reed and hung to the lips of the Son of God, it is not a very nice sponge.

Through the same sponge the soldiers kept the basin in which they had drawn the reed.

The things that speak of the humiliation of the Lord Jesus Christ is the sponge of a soldier, dipped in the vinegar—this was what the soldier drank—stuck upon that reed.

It is a strange comparison, for it is a sponge that is made of a reed—this is the shell of a spear, or a reed—piece of wood—dipped in the vinegar.

"I thirst!" This cry, and seeming to come from a long way off as it reached the ears of those at the cross, brought forth on the part of the soldiers some degree of compassion.

They took the sponge and laid it on a reed, and stuck it up to the cross.

It is a strange comparison, for it is a sponge that is made of a reed—this is the shell of a spear, or a reed—piece of wood—dipped in the vinegar.

Demonstrations of the appliances were given and slides on the screen showed the cooking that was being done by push buttons, very interesting indeed. Many thanks to those who made it possible to attend.

SEEK YE FIRST THE KINGDOM

Straight Ahead

Opportunity knocks. God is calling. Their eyes are on the future and their ears attuned to the marvelous workings of His great universe. They are the new Adam and Eve; here the race gets a fresh start. The family, the state, the church will be determined by the "Straight Ahead" way they go. Our hope is here.

Love and faith conquer the world. Earth and sea, and sky do their bidding as they go forward to possess the earth. Clean of blood, alert of mind, and warm of heart, they "press onward to the mark of the high calling which is in Christ Jesus." They learned in church that they would need the Shepherd's staff when they pass through the valley of the shadow. They know that a profound trust in Almighty God will deliver them to the port of entry to the Kingdom of God, as they march determinedly "Straight Ahead."

A prize was given to Miss Riggs for the wedding game, one to Mrs. Cook for making the most words out of the word "understanding" and Miss Lois Lilly captured the door prize. Next came an interesting part when a table was set before the bride-elect with gifts piled high, all wrapped so beautifully. Miss Riggs thanked each donor in a very appreciative and courteous manner. The last enjoyable period was the refreshments which consisted of brick ice cream and a variety of homemade cakes and pink and green minis. Dinner was very attractive in her black velvet jumper suit.

Dr. Fuller Observes 30th Anniversary Of Radio's "Revival Hour"

Pioneer radio minister to millions, Dr. Charles E. Fuller, reaches his 30th milestone of broadcasting "Old Fashioned Revival Hour" in January. "Old Fashioned Revival Hour" is heard from Station WLW each Sunday at 7:30 a.m. EST.
Back in January, 1925, Dr. Fuller first realized the tremendous possibilities of reaching millions of souls — wherever they happened to be listening — through the medium of radio.
Starting with a single station in southern California, "Old Fashioned Revival Hour" has grown steadily until today there is scarcely an area in America in addition to many foreign lands where this Sunday gospel hour cannot be heard. Dr. Fuller is literally minister to millions with a congregation that reaches around the world.
"The Revival Hour," which now originates from the 5,000-seat Long Beach, Calif., Municipal Auditorium also features a 23-voice choir, under the direction of Leland Green and the "Revival" Quartet singing gospel hymns.

FEEDER'S NOTEBOOK

WINTER EGGS CAN BE KEPT CLEAN

Keeping eggs clean becomes a time-consuming problem in cold weather months to many layer flockowners. When eggs get dirty in the nests extra time and effort must be spent to clean them before marketing.

Several simple precautions may be taken to reduce greatly this problem. Excessive numbers of dirty eggs often result from wet litter. Litter may become dampened from overcrowding, improper ventilation or leaky water fountains.

During muddy weather, eggs will be cleaner if the flock is confined to the laying house. There will be fewer dirty eggs produced in community nests than in single nests because litter is more easily kept clean in community nests. Gathering eggs several times each day will assist in keeping them clean.

The use of hydrated limestone in the litter helps to keep moisture down and nests clean. Ten to fifteen pounds of lime per 100 square feet of floor space may be spread on the floor before new litter is put down. Scratching and stirring will work sufficient amounts to the surface. Some flockowners have placed hydrated limestone in shallow boxes in front of the nest openings so that hens will have to walk through it to get to the nests.

Frequent stirring of the litter will help to keep it in good condition. Many flockowners feel that the use of built-up litter is a prerequisite for producing clean eggs. Old litter will stay dry much longer than new. Built-up litter should be started when pullets are housed in the fall. Litter at least six inches deep, based in the fall, should last through cold weather in good condition.

BUY-NOTES on FOOD

From Extension Service, Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics

Some of the good things in winter-time eating are the citrus fruits that are at their peak in supply and quality during the winter months. Oranges, grapefruit and tangerines are the most abundant of these fruits and they are here right now.

It is sheer coincidence that the word citrus begins with the letter "C" and that that letter can have some significance in the shopper's mind if she will remember that it also can represent Vitamin C — the anti-cold vitamin. Citrus is one of the easiest means of supplying the daily needs of this cold-fighting vitamin and these fruits are most abundant when colds are most likely to be prevalent.

An important part of good shopping is good selection. Good selection helps stretch that food dollar. In choosing either grapefruit or oranges, look for fruit that is free of bruises and soft spots. "Weight" the fruit in your hand to see if it is heavy for its size. Those that are heaviest have the greatest amounts of juice.

Many markets sell oranges, grapefruit and tangerines by the pound and by the pound. The pound fruit is usually prepackaged in bags so that it is easy to handle them. The number in the bag of course, depends on the size as well as weight. "Buy-wise" and compare the fruits in bags and by the dozen to see which will give you the best value. With such good supplies of citrus available, the food shopper can base the final choice on family preferences and how much money she has to spend.

Fresh citrus is easily stored in the home, keeping best at cool temperatures. The refrigerator is the ideal storage spot.

To make eating a little simpler — especially for the small fry — make an orange flower. To prepare an orange in this way, stand it on end and cut down to, but Waterston Homemakers Club. A very interesting lesson on hats was presented by Mrs. Glenn C. Costlow.

Our February meeting will be at the home of Mrs. S. C. Thacher, 218 Brownsboro Road, — Mrs. Mary Hampton, Publicity Chairman.

NORWOOD

The Norwood Homemakers met January 11 at the home of Mrs. Charles Stone. Fifteen members and one visitor were present. The devotional and prayer was given by Mrs. C. B. Morris. Mrs. Paul T. Kiefer and Mrs. C. B. Morris gave a very interesting lesson.

Mrs. D. D. Ross, our president, asked all who were interested in visiting the new G. E. plant on Monday, January 31, to make reservations with her. Buses will take the visitors to the plant from Steiden's on Shelbyville Road at 9 a.m. It is hoped our members will be interested in this visit.

A special day for aluminum was set for the 18th of this month and it is hoped a good number will turn out for this work — Mary Dreisbach, Publicity Chairman.

ECHO TRAIL

The postponed January meeting of the Echo Trail Homemakers Club was held on Friday, January 21, in the home of Mrs. Ruth Thompson, Cooper Chapel Road. Despite inclement weather, twelve members were present, also three visitors, namely, Mesdames Wanda Chambers, Donna Smith and Winnie Smith. Following a short devotional, the project lesson was given by Mrs. Florence Speaker and Mrs. Thelma Bailey. They described and demonstrated in a most interesting manner the procedures and steps in remodeling both felt and straw hats. Each displayed a most becoming hat she had remodeled. Quite a bit of enthusiasm was evidenced by members, and a work day on hat remodeling was set for Wednesday, January 26, at the home of Mrs. Winnie Smith, 2016 Eden Avenue.

The business session got under way with Roll Call, Secretary's and Treasurer's reports, but had to be interrupted for the noon luncheon period.

Afterward, among the items of interest was announcement of the annual tailoring course to be held in February. An organizational meeting for this course is scheduled for Monday, January 24, at the Y.M.C.A. Mention was made, too, of a Style Show, to be held March 8, at the University of Louisville's Little Theatre.

Attention, also, was called to the Homemakers' radiocasts over WAVE on the second Saturdays of each month at 11:00 a.m.

The group voted to send Mrs. Hardy Adair and Mrs. Webb to attend the Farm and Home Convention, to be held February 1 through 4.

Under chairmanship of Mrs. Margaret Jenkins, the club is sponsoring a party for patients of the TB ward at the Veterans on January 31.

Mrs. Charles Goutley reported details of the family party to be held in Clark Memorial Park on January 29.

Mrs. Timmons, our president, asked for volunteers to go to the Children's Home in Lyndon to do mending.

Our landscape chairman, Mrs. Lusk, gave the lesson for the month, after which we adjourned.

The February meeting is scheduled to be held with Mrs. Sterling Horne, — Mrs. R. P. Pfeiffer, Publicity Chairman.
